The American English Institute offers English language programs for adults who want to improve their English proficiency in order to perform effectively in an academic or professional setting:

- Intensive English Program
- Academic English for International Students Program
- Academic English for International Graduate Students Program
- Other innovative program offerings

Institute instructors are university faculty members with specialized training in linguistics, applied linguistics, or teaching English as a second language. Classes begin in September, January, March, and June.

Intensive English Program

The Intensive English Program (IEP) consists of a seven-level curriculum with electives. Students may enroll for the full 10-week term or one of two four-week sessions: 1) the first four weeks of the program or 2) the last four weeks of the program.

The curriculum is divided into integrated skills courses focusing on reading and writing, grammar, and speaking and listening. Students take the core courses and one or more elective courses for a total of 18 to 22 hours of instruction per week.

The elective courses focus on areas of special concern or interest to students, including targeted skill practice for academic vocabulary, reading fluency, pronunciation, and test preparation. A rotating selection of courses may include on subjects such as journalism, current events, English as a world language, the world of hip-hop, and English conversation.

Students in good academic standing may enroll, with approval from the institute, in one regular university course (mathematics, foreign languages, or music performance) at an additional cost. Students who have partially completed the program may enroll in other university courses, with advising and approval from the institute.

Students receive additional language and study support through the Tutoring Office, where trained and supervised tutors help students with course work, conversation, listening, reading, composition, and pronunciation.

In addition to academics, students may participate in a selection of extracurricular activities. These activities include a conversation partner program, culturally and socially relevant activities, and volunteer and community-service programs.

Student Services

The institute’s services for students in the intensive and short-term programs include host families, advising, an extensive orientation program prior to the start of classes, coordinated interaction through tutoring, conversation partners, and planned activities in Eugene and around Oregon.

Admission Procedures

The institute’s Intensive English Program is open to students who have successfully completed secondary school and are able to demonstrate sufficient financial support for study at the institute. To apply, submit the following materials:

2. Original or certified copies of the most recent degree or diploma received
3. A personal (or guarantor’s) bank statement showing the exact amount available for the period of study, or evidence of a scholarship

Academic English for International Students

This program is offered to matriculated students who have scored between 61 and 87 on the internet-based TOEFL, between 500 and 575 on the paper-based TOEFL, or below 7.0 on the International English Language Testing System (IELTS) examination, or who request additional training in English as a second language for academic work. Courses are offered in listening, speaking, reading and vocabulary, and writing. International First-year Interest Groups (iFIG) are available in fall and winter. A placement test is required before registering. These courses earn university credit and are taken at the same time as other university course work. Information about this program is available from the American English Institute main office, its advising office, the First-Year Programs office, and International Student and Scholar Services in the Office of International Affairs.

Academic English for International Graduate Students

Graduate-level English (GRST) courses provide language support in academic writing and oral communication skills to international graduate students. These include two levels of graduate and scholarly writing in which students develop and polish skills in academic discourse conventions, vocabulary choice, and the grammatical accuracy needed for a variety of graduate-level writing tasks. Other courses focus on advanced speaking and presentation skills, specifically fluency, pronunciation, pragmatics, and strategic competence needed for clear, effective communication in various academic contexts, including professional contexts and teaching as a graduate employee (GE). Testing is provided for the GE English language requirement. Information about this program is available from the American English Institute office, the UO Office of International Affairs, and the UO Division of Graduate Studies.

Innovative Programming

The American English Institute offers customized on-campus, online, and hybrid courses, workshops, and webinars. Specialized programs, curriculum, and materials can also be designed upon request in academic or professional areas of interest such as English-language learning, teacher training, university preparation, English for specific purposes, and US language and culture. A minimum number of students is required to offer these specialized programs.
