The School of Law offers a three-year, full-time professional curriculum leading to the doctor of jurisprudence (JD) degree; a two-year, full-time program leading to an interdisciplinary master’s degree (MA or MS) in conflict and dispute resolution; a one-year, full-time program leading to a master of laws (LLM) with concentrations in American law, business law, conflict and dispute resolution, and environmental and natural resources law; and an undergraduate minor in legal studies.

The law school’s broad-based curriculum and clinical programs prepare students for careers in almost every practice area and professional setting. Special centers and programs include appropriate dispute resolution; business law; criminal justice; environmental and natural resources law; estate planning; family law; intellectual property law; international law; legal research and writing; the Portland program; public law and policy; sports law; tax law; and the Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics.

The Center for Career Planning and Professional Development offers counseling, seminars, mentoring programs, and connections to UO law graduates throughout the world.

The William W. Knight Law Center offers a spacious, welcoming environment for study and community activities and includes more than 1,500 fast-Ethernet jacks and wireless access throughout the building.

The John E. Jaqua Law Library is a light-filled space occupying three floors, designed to meet the research and study needs of law students. It provides print, electronic, and video resources, and has full wireless access. Each floor of the law library contains a mix of books, tables, carrels, equipment, and study rooms. Law students can use our online catalog to order materials from the law library and from other libraries in Oregon and Washington. Attorney librarians teach students how to perform legal research in class and in the library.

UO law students run three journals and nearly 40 active student organizations, serve the public in numerous clinical programs, and organize the world’s oldest and largest public interest environmental law conference, attracting more than 3,000 participants each year. In addition, the School of Law offers a wide range of options to perform pro bono work in the local community, of which UO law students have a strong tradition.

Academic Calendar for Law Students

The School of Law JD and LLM programs operate on a semester calendar. On this schedule, registration for fall and spring semesters begins the third week of April, fall semester examinations are given before the winter vacation, and the spring semester ends in mid-May. More information about calendar dates is available online at registrar.uoregon.edu/calendars/academic (http://registrar.uoregon.edu/calendars/academic/).

January Term

The School of Law offers a collection of one-week intensive courses held the week before the start of the regular spring semester.

Summer Session

The School of Law offers a summer session that is open to law students who have completed at least one year of legal studies and who are in good standing at a law school accredited by the American Bar Association. Summer session is not open to beginning law students.

Experiential Education

The law school’s Experiential Education Program, which includes clinics, field placements, and simulation courses, gives students real-world experience with concepts learned in the classroom. These courses offer second- and third-year students access to practical work experiences that better prepare them for law practice, increasing their value to potential employers. Students and employers alike recognize the value of practical learning experiences during law school, and the demand for practice experience is high.

Clinical Offerings (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/registrar/clinical_information/)

Business Law Clinic (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/sites/default/files/academic_affairs/business_law_clinic_course_description_ay22-23.pdf)

Eugene and PDX Campuses

Students represent small companies and entrepreneurs who need legal assistance in forming and operating their businesses. This includes a weekly seminar offering instruction in substantive law, ethical issues, and practical lawyering, with an emphasis on the skills required in drafting documents, interviewing and counseling clients, and representing clients in organizational and contractual matters. The Business Law Clinic is offered to students enrolled in the Portland Program during the spring semester.

Participating students will be assigned a variety of misdemeanor cases in the Lane County Circuit Court and will be responsible for all stages of the representation of those clients under the supervision of the supervising attorney. In consultation with our clients, participating students will conduct client interviews, review police reports, interview witnesses, and handle all aspects of the plea negotiations, motions, changes of plea, scheduling hearings, sentencing hearings, and jury trials.

In the Prosecution Clinic, most students are assigned to Lane County District Attorney’s Office or, on special request, one of several local prosecutors’ offices. Students prepare and try both misdemeanor and felony criminal cases under the supervision of an attorney. Students are also given the opportunity to assist senior prosecutors on more serious felony cases. Students who have a demonstrated interest in juvenile or domestic violence issues may have the opportunity to be assigned to units that deal specifically with those issues.

Domestic Violence Civil Clinic (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/sites/default/files/academic_affairs/dv_civil_clinic_course_description_ay22-23.pdf)
Students enrolled in this clinic will represent victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking in civil legal actions, with an emphasis on family law (divorce, child custody and parenting time, support, paternity), and may also work on cases involving public benefits, housing (both private landlord/tenant disputes and subsidized housing), employment, unemployment compensation, and consumer credit and related criminal matters (such as crime victims’ compensation or coordinating with the district attorney to ensure that the civil and criminal cases are complementary). In the course of providing this representation, students will be involved at every stage of litigation, including interviewing clients and witnesses, obtaining evidence, negotiating with opposing counsel, drafting legal documents, and appearing in court. In addition to participating in litigation, students will meet with clients throughout the term to provide counsel, advice, and brief legal services on a wide variety of civil legal matters.

Students enrolled in this clinic will represent victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking in civil legal protective order actions, including obtaining and defending restraining, stalking and other protective orders. In the course of providing this representation, students will be involved at every stage of litigation, including interviewing clients and witnesses, obtaining evidence, negotiating with opposing counsel, drafting legal documents, and appearing in court.

Environmental Law Clinic (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/sites/default/files/academic_affairs/environmental_law_clinic_ay22-23.pdf)

Through the Western Environmental Law Center, clinic students generally will work on emerging or ongoing court cases with WELC attorneys. Students will help develop case strategies, pursue discovery or Freedom of Information Act requests, develop legal theories, and draft or write components of legal motions or memoranda.

Nonprofit Clinic (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/sites/default/files/academic_affairs/nonprofit_clinic_course_description_ay22-23.pdf)

The nonprofit clinic is a joint venture with the UO’s School of Planning, Public Policy and Management, the Master’s Degree in Conflict and Dispute Resolution Program, and the Lundquist School of Business. Students conduct a governance assessment of several nonprofit organizations, draft an assessment report, and present their findings and recommendations to the boards of their nonprofit clients. Students work in highly supported interdisciplinary teams and have an opportunity to conduct interviews, review documents, hone their writing, plan and facilitate meetings, and learn about organizational functioning and dynamics.

Field Placement Offerings (https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/registrar/field_placement_information/)

Bankruptcy Field Placements

Students serve as judicial externs for the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Oregon and participate in all aspects of judicial decision-making, including researching and drafting bench memorandums and opinions, and observing oral arguments and chambers conferences. Students also have the opportunity to extern at the Office of the United States Trustee, the division of the US Department of Justice responsible for overseeing the administration of bankruptcy cases.

Criminal Justice Field Placements

Students work for public defenders, US attorneys, state attorneys, and district attorneys doing a range of legal work from conducting legal research on a myriad state/federal issues, drafting briefs, memorandum, and/or internal office documents, and preparing for criminal motion hearings and trials, to attending in-court proceedings and meetings regarding case matters and administration, and appearing in court on behalf of your client/agency.

Domestic Violence Field Placements

Students work in private firms, government agencies and nonprofits focused on domestic violence and family law.

Environmental Law Field Placements

Students are placed with governmental and nonprofit agencies from Oregon to Washington, DC, working on a variety of issues related to environmental regulations and compliance, energy policy, land use, and climate change.

In-House Counsel Field Placements

Students are placed in corporate counsel offices to give them a window into the world of major Oregon businesses and non-profits. Students participating in the program are exposed to the roles of in-house counsel, the relationship between in-house and outside counsel, and the workings of business operations.

Judicial Field Placements

Students work for district and appellate federal courts; state trial, tax, and appellate courts; and other courts such as the federal immigration court. The judges include students in all aspects of their work, including settlement conferences, trials, and discussions in chambers. Students perform legal research and writing for judicial chambers under the supervision of judges, clerks, and staff attorneys.

Government & Public Interest Field Placements

Students work in the office of in-house counsel for cities and counties, state and federal agencies, such as a state’s office of attorney general or the US Department of Justice, as well as local, regional, and national nonprofit public interest legal organizations.

Simulation Course Offerings

Simulation courses are reasonably similar to the experience of a lawyer advising or representing a client or engaging in other lawyering tasks in a set of facts and circumstances devised or adopted by a faculty member. Each simulation course is evaluated by the faculty and approved for simulation designation. Examples of simulation courses include Advanced Appellate Advocacy, Business Planning, Mediation, Negotiation, Plea Bargaining, and Trial Practice. A complete list of simulation courses can be found on MyLaw: https://mylaw.uoregon.edu/registrar/degree_requirements.
Centers and Programs

Appropriate Dispute Resolution Center
Many lawyers today are more likely to participate in a settlement conference, mandatory arbitration, or mediation session than they are to argue a case in the courtroom. The law school’s appropriate dispute resolution courses, trainings, and programs help students understand a wide range of dispute resolution methods so that as lawyers they may advise their clients wisely. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/adr

Business Law
Comprehensive business law courses contribute to the core of the law school curriculum. Practical experience is gained in classroom studies and in real-world opportunities, teaching students the relationship between law and entrepreneurship and providing students the necessary deal-making skills to become transactional lawyers. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/bizlaw

Criminal Justice Program
The criminal justice program prepares future lawyers with the knowledge and practical skills necessary to practice in the criminal justice system as prosecutors and attorneys for criminal defendants and parents and children in the juvenile justice and child-welfare systems. https://law.uoregon.edu/jd/concentrations/criminal-law

Environmental and Natural Resources Law
For more than forty years, this program’s focus on public interest environmental law and its commitment to innovations in environmental legal education have made it one of the nation’s oldest and most respected programs. Its faculty is involved in innovative legal scholarship that makes a global impact on environmental law. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/enr

Family Law
The increasingly complex nature of family relationships requires lawyers to possess an in-depth understanding of the law that structures them. Future legal practitioners gain the knowledge and practical skills necessary to advocate for children, families, and the elderly. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/family

International Law
Globalization, extensive migration, and shifting demographics make international law a crucial component of legal education, creating an imperative to educate students prepared to practice at home and abroad. https://law.uoregon.edu/jd/concentrations/international

Legal Research and Writing
This rigorous program thoroughly prepares law students for the exacting style of writing expected of individuals in a clerkship or legal practice. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/lrw

Portland Program
The program creates opportunities for students to build ties with the legal and business community in Portland, Oregon. As the state’s largest city, Portland is home to more than 3,000 UO School of Law alumni. The Portland Program offers field placements, courses, and symposiums. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/Portland

Public Law and Policy Program
Building on a foundation of course offerings, career planning support, and service opportunities, UO students prepare for careers in the public sector. UO law graduates accept public service positions at rates far exceeding the national average. https://law.uoregon.edu/jd/concentrations/plp

Sports Law
The sports law program prepares students to enter a rapidly growing and evolving field. Through traditional course work and experiences outside of the classroom, students learn about legal areas surrounding the sports industry and gain practical skills in contract negotiation, legal drafting, sponsorships, business development, labor law, and intellectual property and licensing. https://law.uoregon.edu/academics/centers/OSSLI

Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics
An independent center within the law school, the Wayne Morse Center for Law and Politics organizes dynamic programs in the spirit and tradition of former U.S. senator and law school dean Wayne Morse. Senator Morse was best known for his stance against the Vietnam War and as an advocate for civil rights, labor rights, and the rule of law. waynemorsecenter.uoregon.edu

Admission Procedures

Prelaw Preparation
The School of Law does not prescribe a prelaw curriculum. Intellectual maturity and breadth of educational background are considered more important than specific subject matter.

Information about the School of Law and its programs is available on its website (https://law.uoregon.edu/). Additional information may be requested through the website or by contacting the Office of Admissions. Admissions staff members are happy to respond to inquiries regarding the admission process as well as to make arrangements for visits to the School of Law.

Requirements through the Law School Admission Council
The University of Oregon School of Law is a member of the Law School Admission Council (LSAC). To complete the application process, an applicant must register with LSAC to take the Law School Admission Test (LSAT) and participate in the Credential Assembly Service (CAS); register at www.lsac.org (http://www.lsac.org) or call 215-968-1001. An applicant should take the LSAT no later than February of the year in which they wish to enroll. A score from the June 2018 test administration is the oldest acceptable score for fall 2023. An applicant must submit official academic transcripts of all college-level work and postgraduate work and letters of recommendation to the LSAC. All required fees must be paid, and all required documents received before the admissions committee will review an application. Applicants receive an admission decision from the Office of Admissions in a letter sent through email and the United States Postal Service between December and May.
Basic Admission Requirements
An applicant must have a bachelor’s degree from an accredited college or university prior to enrolling in the School of Law. Enrollment restrictions and the large volume of applications for admission to the law school make it necessary to admit applicants who, in terms of their overall records, are the most qualified for legal studies.

In evaluating the strength of the overall record, the admissions committee considers the undergraduate grade point average (GPA), the results of the Law School Admission Test (LSAT), the personal statement, and letters of recommendation. The applicant should also submit a résumé that highlights educational background, employment, global and multicultural experience, and extracurricular activities. International applicants are required to submit results of the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL).

The admissions committee strives to annually enroll a class that is academically distinguished and reflects a rich blend of educational, economic, cultural, and professional backgrounds.

Costs and Financial Aid
Law students are classified as graduate students. Tuition and fees are payable in full as prescribed by the Office of Business Affairs. Payment of the stipulated fees entitles students enrolled for academic credit to all services maintained by the university for the benefit of students.

Tuition and Fees for JD Program
For the 2022–23 academic year, tuition is $41,599 for resident students and $52,380 for nonresidents. See the law school website for more information. For fee information, please refer to financialaid.uoregon.edu. Tuition and fee schedules are subject to revision by the State Board of Higher Education.

Residence classification regulations appear in Chapter 580, Division 10, of Oregon Administrative Rules, which are quoted in the Admissions section of this catalog. Details governing administration of nonresident and resident policies are complex. For answers to individual questions, students are advised to consult a staff member in the university’s Office of Admissions.

Total Costs
Because student living arrangements and personal spending habits vary widely, no single figure represents the cost of attending the university. Information on total 2022–23 costs for a resident student at the School of Law is available to view on the Office of Student Financial Aid and Scholarships website (http://financialaid.uoregon.edu/cost_of_attendance_law/). The child-care allowance varies according to circumstance and is based on documentable costs for the period of time the student is enrolled. Transportation costs also vary.

Health insurance is optional for domestic students. Costs for semester or for full twelve-month coverage are available in the office of the University Health Center.

Financial Assistance
See the Student Financial Aid and Scholarships section of this catalog for complete information about financial aid including loans.

Scholarships and Fellowships
Law school applicants are automatically evaluated for merit-based scholarships. Admitted law students may also apply for scholarships and fellowships offered exclusively for incoming law students after the time of admission.

Importantly, all law students are encouraged to apply for scholarships offered by the University of Oregon through the Office of Financial Aid and other outside organizations.

The law school has a Loan Repayment Assistance Program (LRAP) to help students with large law school loans to more easily enter public service. Learn more by visiting the website (https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/LRAP/).

Courses must be passed with grades of C– or better, with at least 12 credits earned in upper-division courses at the 300 or 400 levels. Courses taken by the student toward the minor may also count, as appropriate, to fulfill requirements for other degree programs. The legal studies minor does not count toward any other degree offered by the School of Law (JD, LLM, CRES master’s).

The law elective courses are organized into two fields of interest: law in American society and law in global society. The electives include courses from the following departments and programs: business administration (BA), cinema studies (CINE), education studies (EDST), ethnic studies (ES), family and human services (FHS), geography, (GEOG) global studies (GLBL), journalism (J), philosophy (PHIL), planning, public policy, and management (PPPM), political science (PS), psychology (PSY), and sociology (SOC).

Students may petition the School of Law’s Managing Director of Legal Studies for approval of another outside course related to legal studies.

Total Credits 85

Students who have been admitted to the School of Law, who have satisfactorily completed 85 semester credits, and who have otherwise satisfied the requirements of the university and the School of Law are granted the JD degree provided that they

- earn a BA or BS or equivalent degree from an accredited college or university at least two years before completing work for the JD degree
- complete successfully all prescribed first-year courses
- complete successfully Constitutional Law II (LAW 644) and Legal Profession (LAW 649)
- fulfill an experiential learning requirement, a diversity course requirement, a professional planning requirement, and a writing requirement
- have been full-time law students for at least six semesters or equivalent
- earn a 2.00 cumulative University of Oregon Law School grade point average
- fulfill other requirements as may be imposed

The School of Law reserves the right to modify its curriculum and graduation requirements at any time.

Students in the School of Law may accrue up to 5 of the required 85 semester credits by successfully completing non-law graduate-level courses or seminars at the University of Oregon. These courses must be relevant to their program of legal studies and approved in advance by the associate dean for academic affairs.

Additional Requirements

A total of three years of full-time resident professional study in the University of Oregon School of Law or another law school of recognized standing is required for the JD degree. At least 55 semester hours must be completed at the University of Oregon School of Law.

Master of Laws

The School of Law offers a degree program leading to a master of laws with concentrations in American law, business law, conflict and dispute resolution, or environmental and natural resources law. Applicants must have a JD from an accredited US law school or a law degree (e.g., LLB or bachelor of laws) from a non-U.S. program of legal education.

This program is intended to prepare a select group of postgraduate students for careers in teaching, governmental or international positions, and legal careers in private or public service.

Students who have been admitted to the School of Law master of laws (LLM) program, who have satisfactorily completed at least 24 semester credits, and who have otherwise satisfied the LLM program requirements, are granted the LLM degree provided that they

- have been full-time law students for at least two semesters
- earn a 2.00 cumulative law school grade point average
- fulfill other requirements as may be imposed

The School of Law reserves the right to modify its curriculum and graduation requirements at any time.

For the 2022–23 academic year, tuition and fees for both resident and nonresident students are $50,724. For fee information, please refer to the Financial Aid website (https://financialaid.uoregon.edu).

Additional Requirements

- Students who hold a law degree from a non-U.S. institution of higher education are required to take a 2-credit introductory course in American law and a 2-credit course in advanced persuasive legal writing as part of their degree requirements. Depending on a student’s course selection and course availability, a student who is required to take these two courses may take more than 24 credits.
- LLM Seminar: Writing (LAW 780) and LLM Seminar: In Practice (LAW 781) are required for all students, providing education on topics of current concern. The students also work to improve their skills in making presentations, drafting articles, legal research, drafting transaction documents, and working collaboratively.
- Master of laws students must complete a written comprehensive paper or project in connection with one of the required concentration-specific courses or as a concentration-focused, independent-study legal research and writing course under the supervision of a faculty advisor.

Full information may be found on the program website (https://law.uoregon.edu/programs/LLM/).

Master’s Degree in Conflict and Dispute Resolution

The graduate program in conflict and dispute resolution (CRES), housed in the School of Law, offers an interdisciplinary, master’s degree (MA or MS) granted by the Division of Graduate Studies. It is an interdisciplinary program that prepares professionals from all disciplines to be collaborative problem-solvers in every aspect of society. The curriculum includes a balance of theory and skills-based learning designed to sharpen analytical and practical skills, encourage intellectual rigor and foster the lively exchange of ideas in and out of the classroom.
The program operates on the quarter (term) calendar. The calendar is available for review online (http://registrar.uoregon.edu/calendars/academic/).

Students are admitted to the program once a year for fall term. Applicants do not need to apply to the JD program, nor are they required to have a specific educational background to be eligible. Applicants are required to apply online (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/apply/) through the Division of Graduate Studies system, GradWeb.

For 2022–23, tuition is $24,759 for resident students and $33,426 for nonresidents assuming students are enrolled full-time for fall, winter and spring terms. The total cost of attendance (including estimates for housing, books, personal expenses, and transportation) and information about scholarships may be found online (https://law.uoregon.edu/explore/CRES-tuition-and-financial-aid/). Additional Requirements

First-year students take core courses (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/requirements/corecourses/) together as a cohort. In the second year of study, degree candidates focus on completing their elective course work, internship, and final project. Students have the option to pursue and complete the program on a full-time basis in two-years or pursue the program on a part-time basis which extends the program.

Elective course work (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/requirements/electives/) may come from a wide array of disciplines including business, global studies, public policy and management, philosophy, political science, psychology, and sociology, among others. The CRES Program also offers specific electives in areas such as the Israeli-Palestine conflict, environmental conflict resolution, organizational conflict resolution, restorative justice, family mediation, and conflict and gender.

The internship (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/practical-experience/) is a key element of the educational program, providing practical experience in an area that has relevance to the student’s educational and career goals. The internship requirement is flexible to allow students to complete their credits over one or more terms with one or more organizations. Opportunities may include local, regional, national, and international locales.

The thesis, terminal project, or course concentration component (the final project (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/requirements/final-project/) for the degree requirement) is flexible in format and content to allow students to choose among a theory-based academic paper that studies an aspect of the field, a practical applied project, or a set of courses selected to build specific expertise in a given area. Successful completion of the final project requires an oral defense before the student’s final project committee.

The Conflict and Dispute Resolution Program offers several concurrent degree programs: environmental studies, global studies, law, business administration, multimedia journalism, strategic communication, community and regional planning, nonprofit management, and public administration. Other concurrent master’s or doctoral degree opportunities may be approved on a case-by-case basis. Students are also eligible to pursue a variety of graduate certificates and specializations. For more information on these opportunities, click here (https://graduatestudies.uoregon.edu/academics/programs/#Graduate%20Certificate%20Programs).

Graduate Specializations

The Conflict and Dispute Resolution Program partners with several other academic departments to offer four graduate specializations (https://law.uoregon.edu/cres/specializations/):

- Environmental Conflict: Climate Change
- Environmental Conflict: Land Use
- Environmental Conflict: Water
- Regional and International Conflict
